Made in America

THE great house of Tiffany & Co., Union Square, New York, is famous in every section of the world. Its fame is based on a solid foundation. For originality, Tiffany & Co., are unsurpassed; the skill and intelligence shown in the execution of their work are themes for continuous comment, while in artistic detail, and conscientious care, they are far in advance of European or American competitors. It is not, therefore, a matter for surprise that Kaiser William of Germany should become intensely interested in a specimen of Tiffany & Co.'s exquisitely beautiful work—a vase presented to Frankfort Sangerfest by the wealthy New Yorker, Mr. Pagenstecher. When the Kaiser saw this vase, he exclaimed: "Wonderful! such work cannot be done in Germany!" The Kaiser's habit of bluntly telling the truth, did not please the German silversmiths, who sent a deputation to complain that his assertion was unjust. The Kaiser refused to "eat his words," as they say in Russia, replying to the deputation as follows: "I will give you one more chance! If you fail, I will order my trophies in New York in future.

Could any higher compliment, or more substantial recognition be given to the firm of Tiffany & Co.? Americans are justly proud of this great house and The Item predicts that "one more chance" will be sufficient to convince the mighty German Emperor that if he wants trophies that are the best in all respects—representing the highest accomplishment in originality, art and manufacture—he must give the order to Tiffany & Co.

THIS Company mines a Semi-Bituminous, Smokeless Coal of a very High Heating Quality, and is capable of producing Coke equal to any produced in this country. Shipments of coke are made largely throughout the South and Southwest, supplying the vast smelting systems of the mining region of Northern and Western Mexico, while the coal is distributed over an area extending from Kansas City to Mexico, and serves every purpose from the supplying of railroad companies to the general purposes of the household. There has been throughout the past several years, a constantly increasing demand for this coal and it has practically replaced in many districts the anthracite coal of Pennsylvania.

EDITORIAL

HE Board of Editors, representing the Class of 1904 of Phillips Academy, Andover, presents in this the twelfth volume of the POT-POURRI and the eighth volume of the Senior CLASS BOOK. Believing that two annuals were more than an institution of this size and character should be asked to support, we combined the two in an effort to give the school in one volume all that formerly was contained in both.

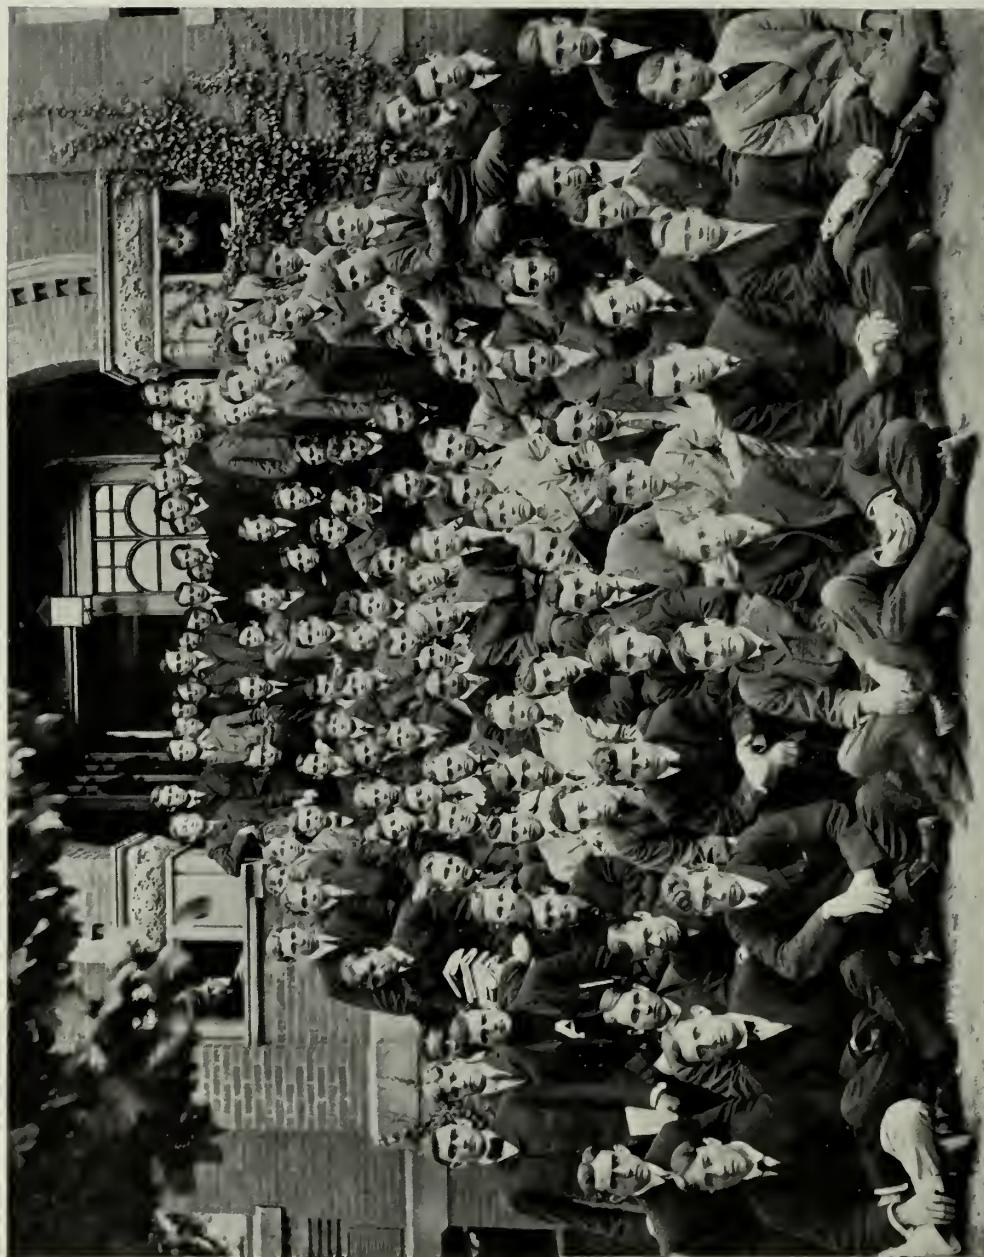

We have not slighted that department characteristic of the POT-POURRI grinds, and trust that tender hearts are not wounded by its thrusts. Even so, knowing the spirit which prompted them, we offer no apologies and have nothing but sympathy for him who cannot laugh with the rest and admit "that's one on me".

In conclusion, we thank all who by word of suggestion have shown an interest in our Annual, and we are especially grateful to E. S. Peirce for his valuable drawings, and to all others whose interest has assumed the more practical form of work.

SENIOR MATTER

Fletcher 04

CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FOUR

William McClure Andrews

Held his first hand in the fussing game February 2, 1885. His father, U. A. Andrews, is in the iron business in Youngstown, Ohio. "Bill" gives loafing as his favorite amusement, but was afraid to add "around the Fem. Sem.", although we know he meant to. The girls in New Haven will "amuse" him in the future.

A. U. V.

Fritz William Beinecke

Was born in New York City, April 12, 1887. Eleven days earlier would have been a more suitable date. "Fritzie" has been here two years and his time has been equally divided between studying and training his dog. German and French blood flows in his veins, and "Foxy Grandpa" is given as a distinguished relative. He goes to Yale.

Mandolin Club

Wheelock Bigelow

Was too lazy to give us the date of his birth, but says the event really happened, and names Morristown, N. J., as the fortunate place. "Crab" is quite a student, and if it were not for the "Broadway Weekly" he would undoubtedly grace the honor roll. He goes to Harvard next year.

II. A. E.

Andrew Linn Bostwick

Began to exist in Montclair, N. J., September 19, 1886, where he still lives. Ex-President McKinley is a relative. The most unpleasant event in "Andy's" school life was the Lawrenceville celebration. We wonder why! Yale.

Jonathan Sawyer Bradley

Born January 13, 1886, at Dover, N. H. John came here last fall and wishes he had come sooner. He is of English descent, and Gov. Sawyer is named as a distinguished relative. He also will go to Yale.

Mandolin Club

Harold Brooks

One of our most eccentric members, entered this life March 30th, 1884, in New York City. He came to Andover last fall and has not improved much in this respect. Harold is "awfully English", and says Phillips Brooks is a relative. Yale.

Downing Potter Brown

Smiled first upon this world June 24th, 1887, but according to all reports has not smiled since. "Brownie" has been very active in the athletic life of the school during his year with us and will enter Williams next fall, where he undoubtedly will succeed. Four brothers attended Andover before him.

Second Football Team

Hockey Team

Hamilton Mabie Brush

Was born July 19, 1886, at Greenwich, Conn., where he still lives, and is of Scotch descent. "Ham" is a hard worker and a fine supporter of everything good in the school. He has also been very active in the literary life. Future study will be pursued at Yale.

Phi. A. S.

Philo-Forum Debater

Grinnell Burt

"Butted into" this world in Warwick, N. Y., September 26, 1887, and has been "butting in" ever since. We prescribe "John Henry" as a remedy for this malady. He is an awful "kidder" and admits he is fresh, but says he can't help it. He is one of the few to go to Harvard.

Howard Pierson Burt

The twin brother of Grinnell (although both are sorry), also dates his existence from September 26, 1887. His father is president of the S. & H. R. Railroad. The pleasantest event in his school life is the dance he gave at the November Club House. Harvard.

Charles Van Wyck Chamberlain

A native of Unionville, Conn., was born June 24, 1886. "Charlie" has been with us but one year and came here to study, and he doubtless has succeeded. Yale will give him further opportunities next year.

Clinton Clark

The son of Martin Clark, a lawyer, of Buffalo, N. Y., first met with the hardships of life March 27, 1886. Scotch and English blood flows in his veins. He names "water sports" as his favorite amusement. Needless to say, most of us disagree with him in this matter. He also goes to Yale.

Eugene Judson Curtis

Was born July 28, 1884, in Clinton, Iowa. He is the son of George M. Curtis, a manufacturer of the same place. "Curt" came to Andover as a Junior-Middler and has kept busy most of the time since. Yale.

*Managing Editor Pot-Pourri and Class Book
Police Force Cheering Staff
Editor of Phillipian Asst. Manager Class Baseball*

Gerald Joseph D'Arcy

One of the charter members of the class, and a resident of Andover, was born in Boston, March 14, 1884. He, like several others, say they would have thoroughly enjoyed their days in Andover had it not been for "Pap" Eaton's "make-ups". Harvard.

William Douglas Dick

Has lived in Andover since the date of his birth, May 23, 1884. He is one of the original members of the class, having started in as a "Prep." in 1900. "Willie" thinks the class baseball game is "altogether too rough".

Herbert Allen Dunlap

Comes to us from Washington, D. C., but was born in Syracuse, N. Y., February 8, 1887. "Herb" tried living in the Eaton Cottage, but found the life there too strenuous. His opinion of compulsory chapel isn't fit to publish. He names no particular relative of distinction, but says he comes from the same stock as all great Irishmen. He will enter Harvard.

Charles Meredith DuPuy

Began his "footless" career in Pittsburg, Pa., June 24, 1884, but has since moved to Allegheny, in the same state. "Dip" is by far the most original man in the class, and many of our grinds are the product of his pen. His advice to future classes is, keep off all marks and "steer shy" of "Drip". Yale is his destination.

H. A. E.

Glee Club (2 years)

Thaxter Eaton

Commonly known as "Young Pap", and a native of Andover, was born July 28, 1889. "Thax" has always stood for what is best in the school, and takes great delight in telling us that he has completed his four years in Andover without receiving a cut or a condition. We wonder if he has had a good time. He goes to Harvard next fall, where he doubtless will win honors.

*Vice-President of Chess Club Editor of Phillipian
Secretary of Inquiry Means Speaker (1st prize)
Secretary of Philo Philo-Forum Debater*

Robert Fairbanks

Was too lazy or else forgot to give us the date of his birth, but gives the place as Indianapolis. His father, C. W. Fairbanks, is U. S. Senator from Indiana. "Bob" began talking while still very young and has kept it up incessantly ever since. He is bound to be heard, and has been known on one occasion to use whistles and bells to accomplish his purpose. "Bob" is a good fellow and one of the brightest in school. Yale.

Editor of Phillipian Means Speaker

Edward Spotteswoode Faust

Entered Huntsville, Ala., November 13, 1886, but now lives in New York City, where his father, J. A. Faust, is a woolen manufacturer. "Ted" is quite a pool player, and gives as much time to this as to fussing a certain Fem. Sem. He has been with us three years and has won many friends in his quiet manner. He is headed for Yale.

Φ.Δ. Δ.

Williston Merrick Ford

Was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 23, 1887, but has since moved to London, Eng. While in Andover he has worked hard in the literary life of the school, and in his Senior year he managed the editorial part of the "Mirror". He says he is just a plain American, and will enter Harvard.

Managing Editor of Mirror

Thomas Coolidge Fowler

Stepped quietly into this world in Glen Falls, N. Y., February 15, 1886. His favorite amusement is watching "Doc" Page do "stunts" in the gym. "Tom" advises the succeeding classes to "enjoy themselves, but beware of the fair maidens on School Street". Yale is his choice.

Glee Club

Sydney Dodd Frissell

Hails from Hampton, Virginia, but was born in Bloomfield, N. J., March 7, 1885. "Syd" is one of the quiet members of the class and is liked and respected by all who know him. He is one of the nerviest men we have on the track and bids fair to make the team. His father and brother preceded him in Andover. He will go to Yale in the fall.

Track Team

Chauncey Brewster Garver

Quietly "came to" in New York City, April 4, 1886, where his father, John A. Garver, is a lawyer. "Ceeb", although quiet, is one of the loyal members of the class and liked and respected by all. Next to himself he would rather be his son, and his opinion of the class baseball game is "tres joli". Yale will take care of him in the future.

H. A. E.
Banjo Club
Mandolin Club

Captain Class Baseball Team

Robert Hager, Jr.

Is our class dude, and is also one of the best dressed men in school. He was born in St. Paul, Minn., February 7, 1884, but not finding the western city "high life" enough to suit his aristocratic tastes he moved to New York City. "Bob" has been criticised a good deal, but not by the fellows who know him. Scotch, English, and Dutch blood combine to form his make-up, and Henry W. Longfellow is named as a relative. Yale is his goal.

Horace Hunn Hemingway

A true product of the South, won his first debate July 18, 1887, in Pine Bluff, Ark., but has since moved to Little Rock in order to better prove his oratorical genius. Horace has been voted the brightest man in the class and he certainly is. His opinion of the Fem. Sems. on the whole is "pretty sad", although he admits there is one "corkerino" in the bunch. His choice is Harvard.

President of Philo-Forum Debater (2 years)
Means Speaker

George Lyon Hollett

Was blown into the "Windy City" sometime during the year 1885. He evidently doesn't think the date an important one, as it has been forgotten. R. P. Hollett, his father, is a lawyer in Chicago. The pleasantest event in his school career was when Chief Frye "pulled" him for playing ball in front of the Chandler House. George thinks 1904 has done wonders towards suppressing Pete Dugan, although there is still plenty of room for improvement. Yale.

Mandolin Club
Draper Speaker

Banjo Club
President Chess Club

Samuel Newton Holliday

Began "grinding" in St. Louis, June 21, 1886. His father, J. G. Holliday, is a lawyer. "Sam" came to us as a Middler, and has maintained a high grade of scholarship while here. Yale will direct his future studies.

A. U. V.

Mandolin Club (2 years)
Vice-President of Philo

Burton Johnson Hollister

Is the blank which Charles A. Hollister drew, June 2, 1885, in Evansville, Wis. "Burt" has only had the privilege of being numbered among the happy throng one year, but wishes he had joined us sooner. He claims Sir Thomas Monson as his most distinguished relative. Yale is his choice.

Glee Club

John Newell Jordan, Jr.

Began his fussing exploits in Olympia, Wash., April 25, 1883. "Jack" will be remembered as one of the solid and capable members of the class and a fellow liked by all. He will go to Yale next fall, where he undoubtedly will continue to win success and popularity.

*K. O. A.

Dining Hall Committee

Charles Whittemore Knapp

Had his first nightmare April 10, 1885, in New Haven, Conn., but now lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. His father is a manufacturer in that place. Knapp gives whist as his favorite amusement. We dislike to give him away in such a manner, and advise him to stop his wayward ways as they are not in keeping with the religious life of the school, of which he is an earnest supporter. Yale.

Glee Club

Secretary of Inquiry

Walter Maurice Lacey

Quietly "came to" in Marion, Ind., January 15, 1884, but soon removed to Cheyenne, Wyo. His modesty keeps him from telling the names of his distinguished relatives, but he admits he is descended from Scotch and Dutch noblemen. Walter is one of the few fellows who will enter Williams.

Clarence James McLam

Meekly applied for admission into his father's house September 26, 1883, in Ryegate, Vt. "Mac" entered Andover as a "Prep.", and it is said he was too meek to "kick" when he was marked absent by mistake. He is one of the hard workers of the school, and will enter Harvard.

George Wade Martin

Used his first and only cake of soap in Olean, N. Y., August 24, 1884. The treatment did not agree with his constitution, however, and he has never had the nerve to try a substitute. George says an examination with Mr. Lynde is one of the most unpleasant events in his life, and solemnly swears that his future will be devoted to devising some scheme for "getting back" at Mr. Poynter. Princeton.

Class Relay

Banjo Club

Charles Edward Messerly, Jr.

Quietly announced his arrival in Sedalia, Mo., December 9, 1884. His father's occupation is that of a merchant and "Charlie" will probably follow suit. He came to Andover because it was the best, and will enter Yale next fall.

Joseph William Murphy

Was presented to John T. Murphy in New York City, November 24, 1885. At the time of his birth "Murph" was a trifle top heavy and he has not entirely succeeded in overcoming this difficulty. He has made marked progress as an artist and is a hard worker on the track. Ripley is his chief annoyance, and his favorite amusement is grinding. He will study law at Yale.

Φ. B. X.

George Albert Peirce

Began the life of a student in Frankfort, Me., January 21, 1885. His father, George Peirce, is engaged in quarrying granite. In expressing his opinion of the Fem. Sems., George says "all is not gold that glitters". He probably cast his opinion shortly after the "Queen's" appearance at the Junior Prom. He goes to Yale.

Allen Morse Penfield

Appeared at his paternal home in Danbury, Conn., February 2, 1884. "Pen" says he is of Welch and English descent, and is the son of David G. Penfield, a wholesale grocer in his native town. His favorite amusement is listening to Charlie Forbes's "hot air", and says next to himself he would rather be Miss Means. Yale.

John Bates Perrin

Gladdened his parents' hearts at Indianapolis, Ind., where he still lives. His father, John D. Perrin, is a prominent banker of that place. "Jack" is a brother of Hervey, and has shown in many ways that he is made of the right stuff. He, also, will enter Yale in the fall.

Banjo Club

Lester William Perrin

Is a cousin of "Jack's" and a brother of L. J. Perrin, '02. He greeted his parents with a sweet smile October 29, 1886, at Cleveland, Ohio. "Les" always wears a beaming countenance and is liked by everyone. He is one of the "Barons", and if the fact were known the presidency of Inquiry would be forced upon him. Lester goes to Yale next fall, where he will be a member of the jolly eight.

II. A. E.

Second Eleven

Donald Wallace Porter

Was enrolled as a member of the family January 5, 1886, at New Haven, Conn. "Don" is one of the quiet members of the class, but always gets there. At present he is one of the most promising track men. His advice to future classes is to "get wise" to the "Doc". He will enter Yale and study medicine.

Φ. Λ. Δ.

Track Team

Walter Richardson

Offered his first complaint June 21, 1885, at Janesville, Wisconsin. "Rich" makes himself very prominent in debating circles and we admit he understands parliamentary law. Out of modesty he names the "Mirror" as the best school publication. We hope he had his fingers crossed at the time. Yale will profit by his advice.

President of Philo

Class Relay

Managing Editor of Mirror, 1903

Carl Schmidt

Comes from the "Buckeye" State, where he was born April 12, 1885. Carl ran a close race for meekest and finished second. He says "Pap" forgot to mark him absent one day and that this was the pleasantest event of his life. It was rumored that "Pap" would lose his position for this offence, but it has been decided to give him another trial. He will join the "Johns" at Harvard.

Roger Sherman

First took part in this life on the 4th of September, 1884, in DesMoines, Iowa. He later removed to Salt Lake City, and judging from his fussing exploits we think he went there to take advantage of the matrimonial laws. Roger is a strong supporter of the school, and we wish him success at Yale. He advises succeeding classes to beware of Poynter.

Φ. A. Δ.

Archie McDaniels Sheldon

Loomed up for the first time April 23, 1885, at Rutland, Vt., where he still lives. "Arch" comes from Scotch and English ancestors, and has had three brothers and two cousins in the school. He came to Andover last fall and has been busily engaged in athletics most of the time since. Yale is his choice.

Harold Chapin Slade

Caused a sensation in Fall River, Mass., April 26, 1885, and has been causing them since wherever he goes. His views of school life and organizations are extremely feminine, and we hope he will "get better" at Harvard.

James Carleton Thornton

Was born at Ford, Kentucky, on the 12th of July, 1884, but now resides in a small, obscure town in Indiana called Bedford. "Jim" has been with us two years. He is a hard worker and fine supporter of what is best in the school. A fellow highly respected by all and prominent in all branches of school life.

George Henry Townsend, 2d.

Greeted his parents with a beaming smile July 22, 1884, at New Haven, Conn. George came here as a Junior Middler, and his amiable disposition has made him one of the most popular members in the school. His father, Judge W. K. Townsend, is a judge of the United States Circuit Court. George is loved by all who know him, and his success at Yale is assured.

First dodged a collector and landed in New York City, November 18, 1886. He is the son of J. Wallace, Vice-President of the United Oil Company. Wallace tried to pose as king and capture the "queen", but was unsuccessful. Life in York Street next year will do him good.

Abbott McConnell Washburn

Son of J. S. Washburn, lawyer, was born at Mankato, Minn., April 25, 1887, but now resides at Duluth. "Abe" has distinguished himself as a Greek scholar, as well as by his connection with the "Babes in Andover" Company, which he organized in opposition to "Babes in Toyland". Harvard.

Joshua Boone Waterworth

Scheduled his first game at Brooklyn, April 20, 1885. His father, Wm. Waterworth, is a physician in that place. "Josh" comes from the real article, Daniel Boone being a distinguished relative, and those who remember "Bill" know that he is made of good stuff. The Fem. Sems. take kindly to "Josh", and so does "May". Another member of the jolly eight.

Hicks Arnold Weatherbee

"Butted in" upon his family March 13, 1884, at New York City. "Hicks" managed the financial side of this books until the royal maids of Europe coaxed him across the briny deep. He refrains from naming any distinguished relatives, and, as one of his jokes, says his component parts are "Coon and Irish". He enters Yale.

Business Manager Pot-Pourri and Class Book

Lawrence Guthrie Weaver

Began soliciting "ads." in Chicago, Ill., on the 18th of October, 1883. "Weave" came to Andover as a Junior Middler, and has been actively engaged in many branches of school work. His father, Henry E. Weaver, is in the coal business in the "Windy City". "Lawrie" has been voted our class Adonis, and the election has been endorsed by the Fem. Sems. He will go to Yale.

*A. U. V. Pot-Pourri and Class Book Board

James Willard Williams

Is the name of one of our quiet but well-liked members. He was born at Glastonbury, Conn., August 6, 1885, and is now a resident of that place. Scotch and Irish blood combine to give him life, and the most unpleasant event in his career was when Poynter fired "Bake". We can readily see why he felt badly, as it affected us all in a similar manner. Yale.

Banjo Club Senior Prom. Committee

Delos Hallowell Wray

Preached his first sermon at Rochester, N. Y., December 8, 1881. The "Deacon" deserves great credit for the interest he has taken in the religious life of the school. He has no soft spot for Femies, and "admires" Miss Means for sticking to her job so faithfully.

President of Inquiry

THE BORDEN GYMNASIUM

Clifford Myron Baker

First extended the "glad hand" to the entire population of Plattsburg, N. Y., on the 3rd of June, 1883. "Bake" has only been one of us a year, but has won the friendship of all who know him. He thinks the Femies are all right, but are greatly restricted by their "Means". He enters Sheff. in the fall.

Mandolin Club

Robert Daniels Bardwell

One of the solid members of the class was born at Pittsfield, Mass., June 4, 1884. "Bard" is one of the best students in the class and an earnest worker in the religious life of the school. He is of Norman descent, and thinks Andover's greatest need is co-education. Yale.

President of Forum

President of Inquiry

Howard Withy Bell

A native of Andover, born August 22, 1885. Howard is one of the charter members of the class, and will enter "Tech." in the fall. His father, John W. Bell, is assistant treasurer of the Smith & Dove Manufacturing Co.

Frank Osmond Bennett

Began jollying his fond parents at Washington, D. C., on April 14, 1885. Frank is one of the best-liked fellows in the school, and his popularity even extends to our neighboring institution on School Street. He will go to Yale.

*P. A. E. Manager Tennis Association

David Edward Bigwood

One of the hardest workers in school, was born in Boston, Mass., April 16, 1882. "Big" has made a wide reputation as the "P. A. candyman", and urges better school spirit, as it brings more people to the games—hence, more candy sold. He will enter Yale Sheff.

President of Forum

Walter Babcock Binnian

Began growing at Peoria, Ill., October 28, 1884, but, not meeting with success, stopped about fifteen minutes later. "Binnu" is quite a musician and certainly can tickle the strings. He is also a hard worker in all branches of school life. Yale is his choice.

Φ. A. Δ.

Walter Duncan Brewer

Fell on his father's neck at Duluth, Minn., on the 10th of December, 1886. "Fat" differs from "Jumbo" in that he came here because he wanted to work. His father, F. A. Brewer, is a lumber manufacturer. He will enter Sheff.

Was born at Sandy Hill, N. Y., February 18, 1886. Scotch and English blood fill his veins, and Edward Fuller and William Brewster are given as relatives. John has been here only one year, and will pursue his work at Yale.

Richmond Knapp Fletcher

Submitted his first sketch in Lowell, Mass., March 25, 1885. "Fletch" is one of the quietest members in the school, but a hard worker and well liked. He is by far the best artist that has been in the school for many years. Harvard.

We don't see why he should be abused in such a manner, unless it was because he spoiled the celebration in the Haas family scheduled for that date. A brother, J. G. Haas, jr., graduated in 1898. He will study mechanical engineering at Tech.

Was born at Union Hill, N. Y., February 6, 1885. His father is a merchant of the same place. He names no distinguished relatives, but admits he is of German descent. Yale.

Second Eleven

Began aspiring to immortal fame in Buffalo, N. Y., April 23, 1883. John intends to pursue his "grinding" at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He says Scotch blood flows in his veins, but that he can claim no husky Bruce for a relative.

Class Baseball

Samuel Morton Laubham

Made Haverhill, Mass., famous June 8th, 1884, and still claims it as his residence, "Sam" says that his opinion of the Fem. Sems. is a trifle vague, but we have all observed that he drops in there quite frequently on Friday evenings. He is an unadulterated Dutchman, and names "der Kaiser" as a distinguished relative. He says that his future occupation will be trying to get through Sheff.

The happiest days in his school life were those spent during his sojourn in Central America, and he says Andover's greatest need is plenty of good "spirits". "Rudy" ought to know, Harvard.

Walter Charles Love

Comes all the way from Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, where he was born April 17, 1884. "Lovy" came here because he thought Andover was the best school and because he wished to prepare for Sheff., where he expects to go next fall. Is the son of F. L. Marshall, a lawyer, of New York City, and was born July 1st, 1885. "Jim" has done good work on the track ever since his arrival here as a Junior Middler, and we expect to see his name in red print in all the New York papers when he reaches Yale. He is one of the substantial members of 1904, and the good wishes of all go with the "most modest man" to New Haven.

Raymond Howard Moore

Strayed into Boise City, Idaho, January 3, 1886, and claimed C. H. Moore, a banker, for his father. "Annie's" good nature has won him many friends. The "Rum Hound" says that Andover's greatest need is a license, and next to himself he would rather be "Buster Brown". The pleasantest event in his school life was when Miss Morrill named her cat after him, and the most unpleasant was when he discovered the reason why. Sheff.

Wilford Eaton Murchie

Resides in South Orange, New Jersey, where, on the 23rd of June, 1885, he became the son of H. B. Murchie, a lumber dealer. "Murch" is of Scotch and English descent, but can score up no distinguished relatives. He will pursue his studies at Sheff. if "Mac" condescends to let him through in "Trig".

Foster Naething

Began mingling with the elite at Lakewood, New Jersey, June 4, 1887. "Bug" says that he has "New England" blood in his veins. He gives fussing as his favorite amusement, but, knowing him as we do, we suppose that he is jesting. He has been here two years, and says his greatest happiness is that "Dutch" only teaches one subject. The professors at Sheff. will try to teach him something more.

James Oliver, 2d.

Joined the family at South Bend, Ind., November 3, 1885. "Jimmy's" acquaintance with the East goes as far as Norwalk, and we are lucky to have him with us this term. At present he is busily engaged in working off conditions, and is undecided whether business or Yale will claim him next year. Our best wishes follow him in either event.

Thomas Orr

Vaulted the gate of his paternal home August 29, 1885. His father, George B. Orr, deals in real estate in Kansas City, Mo. "Tom" is a member of last year's victorious track team, and will, no doubt, win laurels for the blue this spring.

Graced the city of St. Paul, Minn., March 25, 1884, where he still lives. Earl is one of the reserved members of the school, but well liked. H. E. Partridge, his father, is a wholesale dry goods' merchant. Cornell is his college.

Began his fussing exploits November 4, 1884, at Fitchburg, Mass., and, strange to say, has not found that field too small for his operations. He thinks Andover's greatest need is more "Fem. Comes over on the street car every morning from our sister city, Lawrence, where he was born July 11, 1887. "Snide" says the Camera Club benefits Andover most because it is such a "snappy" organization. What a "bum" joke for a fellow who thinks as much as "Snide"!

Charles Clifford Scully

Came into this world with the May flowers and other pretty things on the initial morning of May, 1886. "Scull" is an inhabitant of the "Windy City", and his father is Alexander B. Scully. His blood is a mixture of Scotch, Irish, English, and German. He is a good fellow, although he is footless, and we wish him luck at Yale.

Arthur Carr Sherman

Was born in New York City on the 14th of May, 1887, but has since removed to Northboro, Mass. "Fat" enrolled himself as a member of the summer school last summer and liked it so well that he decided to stay the year out. Yale Sheff. is his destination.

Charles Buchanan Stuart

Was born at Cleveland, Ohio, July 9, 1882, with an unconquerable desire to cake-walk up to the director of the Hall of Fame and say, in his unusually soft, musical voice, "Allow me, my photograph". CLASS HISTORIES

THE JUNIOR YEAR

COMPANY of some sixty fellows found themselves gathered together one September morning in 1900 in the Academy chapel, after having been duly deposited in town, for the most part, by fond parents. The upper-classmen were undoubtedly nudging each other and remarking what an odd and helpless collection of Preps. we were. And as for the faculty, we soon discovered that they were not all on the platform, but that there were sundry others stationed at intervals watching, no doubt, for the symptoms of approaching sickness that they might warn our parents. Out of our number there were at least seven who had not attained to the dignity of wearing long pants, and some of us were rather fresh.

A feature of the term was the formation of a Republican brigade, which paraded the streets of Andover. The school was overwhelmingly Republican, as is shown by the fact that 137 votes were cast for McKinley and Roosevelt, at a mock election, against 18 for Bryan, and 16 scattering.

On the night before the Exeter game we attended our first mass meeting. Speeches were made by Dr. Bancroft, Mr. McCurdy, Mr. Goodhue, Mr. Stearns, Prof. Forbes, C. N. Kimball, track captain in '99, and Coach Scheweppe, which were vigorously applauded. The game on the morrow, however, was fought on a bitter cold day, and Capt. Collins's team went down to defeat, nothing to ten. Another reason for the defeat may have been that 1904 was not represented. Hogan, now captain at Yale, led Exeter's eleven. It was the only game that had been lost during the season. "Dutch" Levine, the gritty fullback, originally 1902, became an '04 man before the year was out.

Hockey occupied the most attention at the beginning of the next term, as basketball was not started until the following year. Only a few games were played, but the season closed with a decisive victory over M. I. T. W. M. Silleck was captain.

In February, Watkins ran on the Relay Team which defeated Exeter.

In the Spring Track Meet, Trude won the only point to the credit of 1904. Against Exeter, Watkins got second in the 440-yd. dash. Levine was in the shot put, and Trude won his "A" in the hurdles. Captain Schick's team lost to Exeter, however, 34 to 54.

At last a victory over Exeter can be recorded — that in baseball. The team was captained by W. C. Matthews, and the season culminated in two games in which Campbell, '04, pitched the team to victory, making twenty strikeouts in all. We cannot forget the mass meeting at which Mr. Stearns was presented with a loving cup in recognition of his services as coach, nor the celebrations that followed, nor "Perley" Week's ability as leader of cheering. Centre field was covered by Trude in all three games. The scores were 5-8, 9-2, 9-0.

Along literary lines during the year we furnished Forum with four men and Philo with five — among the number two future presidents. "Doc" Gallyou was the assistant business manager of the Mirror, as well as secretary of Inquiry. The 1904 honor men numbered seven.

The two giants of the class I have already mentioned — Taylor and Walter Scott Trude, mighty in brawn but not in intellect, both of whom, by the way, are long since married. The class could also lay claim to a sojourner from Nevada, who lived for at least a month without eating.

The class numbered fifty-six; nine of these Preps. have stood the wear and tear of time; seven we have bequeathed to lower classes; and the remainder have dropped by the wayside.

Finally, it must be said that though the class was not an extraordinary one, it came into being in momentous times. Prof. Churchill, a revered teacher since 1866 and the trainer of scores of Means and Draper speakers, had died the preceding spring. We were the last class to know and love Dr. Bancroft. Dr. Day and Prof. Platner were called to Andover Seminary; Mr. Stearns became our registrar. The department of Archaeology was established, and one of our skating ponds transformed into Brothers' Field. The gym. also was in progress of building, and we no longer played handball on the second floor of the Dining Hall.

June 26 came and went, and emerging from Prepdom we took our stand as Junior Middlers.

THAXTER EATON.

THE JUNIOR MIDDLE YEAR

UNIOR Middle Year opened rather sadly, not only to 1904 but to the whole school and community, by the death of Dr. Bancroft — a man loved and respected by all who knew him. Prof. Graves was then elected acting-principal in the place so long filled by Dr. Bancroft and took us through that year, which will ever be famous in the history of dear old Phillips.

The "eight o'clock rule" was far less stringent in the good old days, but nevertheless, 1904 started in to maintain that high grade of scholarship for which it has always been reputed, and the list of honor men during that year would be too long to print herewith.

None of our members made the Football Team, which probably accounts for no celebration against Exeter, but material from our class was trained on the second team, which thereafter brought much credit to the class in Conrad, McDougal, Humbird, and Scullin.

While Hodge and Alworth were making themselves famous on the Hockey Team, an event overshadowed all others — "Bill" Taylor and "Walt" Trude, two of our illustrious members, suddenly left school and became benedicts. School was set agog, but the rest of the class preferred to remain in school, and so the fad was not universally adopted.

Spring term had now come, and '04 started in with a zest to make a baseball team that would have undoubtedly brought honor upon itself had not a general "rough-house" been started the night previous to the game, for which reason the game was prohibited that year. With added zeal our men tried for the Track and Baseball Teams; McDougall, Fry, and Marshall all adding to our reputation as athletes by helping to win that most famous Meet in the history of our athletic relations with Exeter, by the score of 53-51.

If the Meet is ever forgotten, certainly the celebration will never be, for the sedate old town of Andover was treated to a demonstration that was probably never before equalled and it is doubtful if such a one will ever occur again. The casualties were two broken arms, two sprained ankles, one dislocated knee, and three teeth.

JUNIOR MIDDLE BASEBALL TEAM

Baseball, although one of the most historic in the college games, did not end with the expected celebration, for a rainy day and a fluke homerun won the day for Exeter. "Jack" Campbell, who pitched and won for Andover the year before, was one of our famous class, but owing to a bad arm was unable to pitch during the whole season, and could only add to our credit by his phenomenal work in the outfield.

To end up the year with a great event the Borden Gymnasium was opened—an institution much needed by the school and almost without equal in any "prep." school in the country.

Thus was Jimior Middle Year completed, and thus was left an example which any class may be proud to follow.

GEORGE HENRY TOWNSEND, 2nd.

THE MIDDLE YEAR

T the opening of school in September, 1903, the class of 1904 registered a hundred and two members. Everything gave promise that the class would continue its fine record of the past two years and pave its way into fame. That it has done this goes without questioning.

From the beginning of the year Mr. Stearns occupied the chair in Chapel as vice-principal, until May twenty-third, when he was elected principal by the Board of Trustees, much to the gratification of the students and alumni. The occasion was honored by a celebration, in which the school showed its great respect and affection for Mr. Stearns.

During the summer the old Gym. had been remodelled into a spacious and well equipped Dining Hall. By the addition of the Borden Gymnasium and the Archaeological Museum, two handsome and finely equipped buildings, the school had been greatly benefited and enriched. During the year the top floor of the Academy Building was found unsafe and condemned. It has since been made into a two-story building, and is much improved in appearance. Brothers' Field was dedicated in the spring, during the 125th Anniversary exercises. This field is one of the finest athletic fields in the United States.

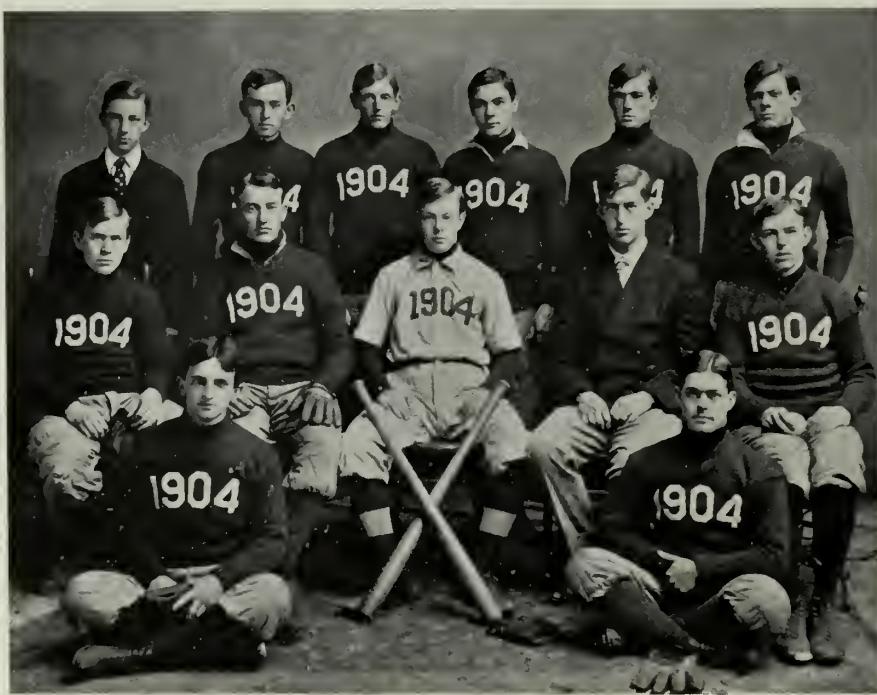

The appearance of the Hill has been much changed and improved.

The football season started off soon after school opened and proved a very good one, as Andover was never beaten, and ended the season by defeating Exeter 29-17. A great deal of the success of the team was due to Humbird, Veeder, Conrad, and Stuart, all of 1904.

Toward the end of the fall term a concert and vaudeville show was given, which proved a great success.

The Hockey and Basketball Teams each made a very good showing. In a dual relay race in Boston at the B. A. A. Meet, we easily defeated Exeter in 3 minutes, 16 2-5 seconds. Thornton, 1904, was on the team.

During the winter term the musical clubs worked hard and gave two successful out-of-town concerts and one at the Town Hall. The topical song left its usual marked impression.

MIDDLE YEAR BASEBALL TEAM

The spring came as it only can in Andover, with good weather and a great deal going on.

The Track Team was developed by steady work, so that it won a well contested Meet from Exeter, 58 1-2-37 2-3. 1904 was represented by Love, Marshall, and Thornton.

The Baseball Team, although it made a very poor showing during the first of the season, eclipsed it all by defeating Exeter (1-0) in one of the greatest games ever played between the two schools. The celebration that followed in the evening was one well to be remembered.

The Class of 1904 has not only been prominent in athletics but in keeping up a high standard of literary work, and when it returns next fall it will be fully prepared to assume the duties and greater responsibilities of a senior class.

JOHN N. JORDAN.

THE SENIOR YEAR

LAST September saw us back in Andover for our last year of school. We realized our dignity as Seniors, and kindly but firmly suppressed the Preps., both among the students and on the faculty. A large squad reported for the Football Team, and "Pa" Corbin soon got the material into good shape. A fast team was developed, and our prospects for beating Exeter seemed bright, especially as the team was composed almost entirely of old men, including Capt. Humbird, Veeder, Conrad, and Stuart, from 1904. However, the unexpected happened, and we were defeated in an exciting game, an occurrence which can only be explained by the fact that Exeter was decidedly superior in quantity, though not in quality, of beef and bone. However, this defeat was partially atoned for, when we overwhelmed Lawrenceville the next week, by the score of 23-0.

Track claimed attention after football, and the Fall Inter-Class Meet was successfully run off. Capt. Marshall, "Jim" Thornton, and others, reflected glory on '04, though we finished next to last in the relay race, and though 1905 won the Meet. In the Tennis Match with Exeter, which was postponed from the previous spring, we won the singles, but lost the doubles. The Andover team was composed of Hodge and Kinney, both 1904 men. As soon as the water in Rabbit's Pond had "adequately congealed", as they say in Boston, candidates for the Hockey Team were called out. A nimble bunch of skaters reported, but no games were played before Christmas. The Musical and Dramatic Clubs had been working most of the term, and they gave a very successful vaudeville show in December.

The winter term opened with a snow-storm and zero weather, which was only an introduction to the most severe winter in the memory of the "oldest inhabitant", and one which would have made our Senior year memorable if nothing else had happened. On account of the fall of snow, comparatively few hockey games were played, but the team made a creditable showing. With winter came that joy of joy (e'en thrice joy), compulsory gym., wherein we all became expert gymnasts under the guardian eye of "Doe" Page. However, the Gym. was put to other good uses, as our basketball team defeated some of the best teams in New England. The baseball and track squads also worked hard during most of the term. At the Interscholastic Meet in Boston, our team came out near the top, though Andover's points were not counted for the championship.

As in winter there is less attraction out of doors than in the spring and fall, this is the time when the social star dons his "glad rags" and butts into the dizzy whirl of society. In accordance with this rule, the Middlers had a dance on February 12. Seniors were invited, to furnish the dignity befitting the occasion, and a little ready money on the side. The dance was called a "Junior Prom.", though it was a great success, and the Middlers really had no need to blame it on the Preps. The Musical Clubs also came to the front, and gave concerts in Boston, Lowell, and at the Grand Opera House, Andover. On this last occasion several prominent, or rather conspicuous, members of the school were gently rapped in the topical song. On March 26th, just before the term closed, 1904 rallied at Young's Hotel, Boston, for the annual Senior banquet. With the aid of good food, good songs, and good speeches, prominent among which were those of "Charlie" and "Mac", the affair was a great success.

Our last term at Phillips opened with a couple of snow-storms, but, in spite of several chilly setbacks, it was not long before leaves, blossoms, and flannel trousers began to burst forth into bloom. Baseball held the centre of the stage, and the team soon gave promise of making the season a record-breaker. "Buck" Stuart had arranged a fine schedule, and the first games were all interesting, notably the Yale game, which we won by a score of 5 to 3. This was the first time we had ever beaten Yale, and, needless to say, a celebration took place. At the time of writing, the Exeter game, and other hard games, are still ahead, but we trust to Capt. Clough to lead his team to victory. The Spring Track Meet was held on May 7, and 1904 won out handily. The Meet showed up much promising material, which should round into shape in time to defeat Exeter on May 28th.

In looking back on the year which has just passed, we must all agree that it has been one of the pleasantest, as well as the most profitable, years of our lives. Only a few weeks of the term remain, and we cannot look forward to leaving the Hill in June without feelings of the keenest regret. Most of us will go to college, but, wherever we may be, let us always be true to old Phillips, and shed lustre on her already brilliant name.

C. B. GARVER.

MUSICAL

LTHOUGH the Class of 1904 was not represented at all on the Musical Clubs in her "Prep." year, she made up for that deficiency during the remainder of her career here, and for the past two years has been the mainstay of the organization.

The closing season has been very successful both musically and financially, owing largely to the untiring energy of Manager Thornton. The clubs gave several concerts during the year at Lowell, Boston and Andover, and from all reports the concert at the Town Hall was the best ever given here. The success at this time was partly due to the School Orchestra which was organized this year and will doubtless be hereafter a permanent organization.

During the Junior Middle year 1904 furnished the following men to the clubs :—Weatherbee, Sherrill and Humphreys.

The following year we were represented by Stuart, Humphries, Hodge, Sherrill and Wray on the Glee Club ; E. A. Brewer, Sullivan, Hollett, Holliday, Thornton and Moore on the Mandolin Club ; W. D. Brewer, Martin, Perrin, Proctor, McCurdy, Weatherbee, Burnet, Van Brunt, Kennedy and Binnian on the Banjo Club, and Lerch, Moore and Binnian on the Guitar Club.

This year the clubs were largely made up of 1904 men ; there being on the Mandolin Club, French, Fitten, Holliday, Proctor, Baker, Kittredge, Thornton, Bradley, Tilton, McLean, Forbes, Brush, Washburn, Garver, Van Brunt, Partridge and Binnian ; on the Glee Club, Hodge, Chapin, Bigwood, Sherrill, Fowler, Knapp, Tyler, Garde, Wray, Kittredge, Hollister and Sloman ; on the Banjo Club, Perrin, Garver, Martin, Holliday, Proctor, Sheldon, Seligman, Williams, Partridge and Binnian.

Nevertheless there was a large number of 1905 and 1906 men on the clubs, among whom were two of this year's leaders, and we can therefore look forward to a successful organization next year.

LITERARY

"Here we have a business manager. He is blowing about the circulation of the paper. He is saying the paper has entered upon an era of unprecedented prosperity. In a minute he will go upstairs and chide the editor for leaving his gas burning while he went out for a drink of water, and he will dock a reporter four dollars ($4.) because a subscriber has licked him and he cannot work. Little children, if we believed business managers went to Heaven, we would give up our pew in church." — Eugene Fields.

UR oldest publication is the Mirror, first printed in 1854 under the name of the Philo-Mirror. It had existed for seventeen years previous to this date in manuscript form, and, though rather thin, was of surprisingly high literary merit. It continued in size until 1892, when it was divided into two new publications.

The Phillips Andover Mirror succeeded to the literary part, and the annual, at first called the Masque, to the POT-POURRI.

The Mirror launched forth this year with three '04 men in its crew. It was changed from a monthly magazine of about twenty-four pages to a forty-page journal issued at the end of each term. Why? We do not know, but perhaps, as is the case in all good things, its frequent appearance tended to diminish its worth and acted as too heavy a drain on the literary merit of the school. Richardson, the oldest member on the Board, was taken on in his Junior-Middle year and was managing editor in his Middle year. Ford was admitted to its ranks last year, and Leeds made his debut towards the end of this winter term. "Rudy" wrote some very stirring articles for the Mirror during his term of healing, which takes us back to the dear old days of "Diamond Dick, jr."

The Phillipian was first issued as a fortnightly editorial and news sheet in 1878. It has existed for twenty-six years and has undergone many alterations and enlargements, until now, as semi-weekly, it is notable as one of the most successful periodicals of its kind in the country.

The Phillipian started this year with a staff of six men,—four of them being Seniors, and two of these have since decided to spend another year under the guardianship of the faculty. Marshall and Fairbanks made the Board last year. Curtis was taken on this year, and Cushman (managing editor) and Weaver (business manager) were elected to the Board in their Middle year.

Cushman is probably the only man whose name has appeared as a fixture on the paper during his term of office. This is a favorable sign of the editor's scholarship. Weaver's has appeared once or twice through mistake, and Curtis's name may possibly get on yet for one issue.

The Phillipian will doubtless become a daily before many years, as the necessity of a proper bulletin board has lately been called to our notice. The faculty have refused to read notices in Chapel, and as there are seventeen different bulletin boards distributed throughout the town, on any of which may appear an important notice, it is frequently a trifle difficult to keep in touch with the world.

The Por-POURRI, as stated previously, originated from the old Philo-Mirror in 1893, and since then has been run by an independent Board. It started this year with two Senior members, Weatherbee and Weaver. Was soon joined to the CLASS Book, and it was decided to publish these two books together hereafter. Curtis, who was elected in his Middle year to the CLASS Book and was the only returning member of the Board, made a very wise move when he consolidated these two publications, and we are safe in saying that no better man could have been chosen for managing editor of the Phillips Andover Por-POURRI and CLASS Book. Weatherbee, business manager of the Por-POURRI, was elected to the Board last year, and has spent most of his time since traversing the world.

This was rather an extensive trip for the Por-POURRI to stand, but it is second to none, and its correspondents can be found in any of the important cities of the world.

The CLASS Book sprang into existence in 1897, and until this year was run by a board of four, two of whom were elected by the class.

HERE are to be found in this country, schools where the expenses of a student are such that only the sons of the wealthiest may attend. Then, again, there are schools where the greater part of the student body is comprised of fellows who are forced by necessity to work their way through, earning a living and securing an education at the same time. In our own school we have these two extremes combined, and doubtless no school can be found where there is a wider range of expenses; where a student has a greater choice of the amount of his expenditures. On this account probably, no other school affords a fellow a training in the management of his finances such as Phillips Andover. But whatever an Andover man chooses to make his expenses, there are few to be found who are not willing to contribute all their means will permit towards the support of the various school organizations, even to the extent of depriving themselves of some pleasure, or even some necessity, and a gift given in this spirit is the one that is appreciated, no matter what is its size. In fact, such a subscription, though it be small, is appreciated much more than one of much greater size which is given ostentatiously, more for show than the desire to aid towards the support of the organizations.

The average Andover man responds cheerfully and willingly. It is on account of this splendid spirit shown in such generosity that we are able to produce the athletic teams that we do. Probably no school has a better average standing in athletics than Andover, and such a record is due largely to the support in a financial way given by the fellows. It has been suggested that this year the fellows have not responded as they should and with the spirit that has been conspicuous in previous years. But I think that such a statement was not made with due consideration of the fact that this is a dull year in all business affairs, and a decline in outside financial circles is accompanied with a corresponding fall in our own receipts. For this reason the reports of the organizations for this year will probably not show as great prosperity as those of former years, but, as the present outlook would indicate, the managers though hindered by the above mentioned drawback, will bring this year to a successful close. At least the generosity of the fellows is not to be censured, as it is evidently as great as in former years. Let us hope that this spirit of giving that has always characterized the average Andover man will prevail to make our teams of the future as successful as those of the past.

J. C. THORNTON.

ATHLETICS

EVERY school has its standard of athletics. But of what avail are these standards if not lived up to and raised to as high a mark as possible? It is the duty of every succeeding class to help do this, and the Class of 1904 has so far, done its best in that direction. Starting early in its turn, 1904 has slowly but surely developed a set of athletes which, although free from individual stars, has that requisite deemed so desirable in teams all over the country; namely, the ability to stand by and do its best for Andover in all the critical positions so numerous on field and track.

In our first year's experiences at Andover, the only two in the class to win the coveted "A" were Trude and Levine. The former played centre-field on Matthews' famous nine, while the latter established a new record for the Track Team in the hammer throw.

As a result we started in with more confidence the next year, and in a brave attempt to get to the front landed the three following representatives on the second football eleven: Humbird, Conrad, and MacDougall. We were more successful in the latter part of the year, when Hodge and Gilchrist helped to establish a fine record for the Baseball Team. Alworth, Hodge, and Townsend did good work on the Hockey Team. For the first time in four years Andover defeated Exeter in track. MacDougall, McGovern, Fry, Marshall, and Watkins assisted in this delightful task.

The novelty of being somebody in our Middle year was fast wearing off under the assiduous pounding of "Pa" Corbin on the football field, when we found that, on a team which had defeated Exeter 29-17, we had been splendidly represented by Conrad, Veeder, Stuart, and Humbird. Capt. Waterworth and Angell did good work on the second. Thornton helped his schoolmates uphold the old custom of defeating Exeter in the annual relay race at the B. A. A. Every other member of the class envied Kinney and Hodge their positions on a baseball team which won from Exeter by a score of 1-0 in one of the finest games ever played between the two schools. The habit of defeating Exeter was fast becoming a pastime. But in spite of the old saying that "Variety is the spice of life", another victory over Exeter in track was hailed with great joy by the whole school. Fry, Marshall, and Orr represented 1904. Again our class contributed Alworth, Hodge, Townsend, and Waterworth to the Hockey Team, which went through the season without a defeat. On the Basketball Team, which proved nearly as successful, were Cushman and Kinney.

With the Senior year before us, we felt that we must do our best to help sustain the reputation of Andover, whether it be in victory or defeat. After a long season of well won victories, the Football Team was proved to be one of the best the school had ever turned out. Though defeated by Exeter in a very close and guilty game, they again showed their worth by overwhelming Lawrenceville by the score of 23-0. Humbird captained this team, while Veeder, Conrad, Stuart, and Angell also sustained the reputation of 1904. On the second we had five good workers, Perrin, Brown, Sherman, Hockenberger, and Davidson. The Hockey Team was composed of Capt. Hodge, Brown, and Naething. Cushman and Kinney played on a very successful basketball team, which defeated M. I. T. in a fast game.

With a victory over Yale in baseball in the early part of the season, the prospects for a victory on the 11th of June seem very bright. Kinney, our only representative from last year, is sure to do his best to score for us on that day. In track, Capt. Marshall and Orr are doing their best to prove that Andover can again give Exeter points on their own field.

But whether or not they be won or lost, we can always say that while witnessing or taking part in a contest with Exeter, the rivalry is the keenest we have ever experienced. It is this and the many facilities for higher development, given every one in Andover, which tend to raise the standards of athletics here. We may only hope that this pleasant rivalry, which has existed between Andover and Exeter for so long, will continue always with as good results.

JAMES W. MARSHALL.

PERSONAL

EAUTY is an enviable quality. L. G. WEAVER has this in a marked degree, and the Seniors have chosen him for the class Adonis. J. C. Thornton has captured the laurel wreath on at least one occasion and was second choice.

A "dude", as defined by Webster, is an American imitator of the "English dandy". R. HAGER, after reading London fashions for nineteen years, won the event handily. "Al" Powell, who tries to be "awfully English", was a good second.

When FAIRBANKS gets started he is windier than the corner of the Flatiron Building. Stuart finished with cyclonic speed.

The busiest man we have is THORNTON. Cushman "got busy" and won second place.

Prof. Forbes and Mr. McCurdy have failed to "fuss" E. J. CURTIS, and he has been voted "hardest to rattle". "Buck" Stuart would never do for a baby's plaything.

Our "most versatile" falls to the lot of SHELDON HODGE. Stuart is the second "all-round handy man" of the class.

J. C. THORNTON is chosen by the class to be "most promising". A great many think Fairbanks will also make his mark in the world.

The class as a whole are very well dressed, but WEAVER and Hager are the official fashion plates.

When a man is voted "most popular" nothing more need be said about him. "BUCK" STUART gets the medal, with S. Hodge second.

The "blue ribbon" for "most original" is captured by CURTIS. The talk Fairbanks uses is neither trite nor hackneyed.

The greatest honor voted by the class is most respected. "Jim" Thornton gets it in a walk. Ralph Angell is a fellow respected by all.

Modesty is a most commendable quality. VEEDER and Dillon have it in a marked degree.

There were a great many entries for "least appreciated", but MARSHALL deservedly won the laurel wreath. Garver will certainly be missed when he leaves us.

All birds are vain, but the peacock is the vainest of all. HAGER is our pet peacock, while Powell might be compared to a pouter pigeon.

To call a man eccentric is a polite way of calling him a freak. EATON and H. Brooks have no rivals for the distinction.

CURTIS remembers a bright remark when he hears it and is declared the wittiest. C. B. Stuart's wit also breaks out occasionally.

"LES" PERRIN couldn't get mad if he tried, while Stuart refused to lose his temper when he was denied an opportunity of seeing his girl on a Friday evening.

GEORGE TOWNSEND runs in record time for "greatest winner". Girls, isn't he just too lovely. Hodge, by his winsome ways, came second.

D. H. WRAY may justly feel proud of his position as most religious man. Bardwell deserves second place.

A good sociable grouch is not so bad, but the kind worn by TILTON and Waterworth really is something awful.

Strange as it may seem, our "most popular" man is also "most conceited". STUART evidently has a few enemies, while some people think Hager has too good an opinion of himself.

THORNTON, after ably holding the most responsible position in the school, has rightly been voted "most capable". Again Stuart carries off second honors.

The entries for "prettiest" were few, and the sweet, symmetrical faces of WEAVER and Andrews won them first and second places, respectively.

Preps., on some occasions, have been known to play with dolls, but when haughty Seniors practice this habit something is wrong. BINNAN is the favorite class plaything, and "Jack" Perrin is his running mate.

Strange to say, Dods and Stuart think they are "greatest winners". They must be mistaken.

"BUCK" STUART, on several occasions, has been known to lose lots of his "cheek" on the football field, but the Seniors think he should play the game every day. A good close shave would improve Hodge.

The fact that STUART received so many votes in the class statistics proves that he is most prominent. Again Hodge is his understudy.

The "fussers" are ably led by the nimble heart smasher from New Haven, GEORGE TOWNSEND. Girls, beware! "Josh" Waterworth causes the hearts of the fair maidens to flutter.

We are undecided as to the exact meaning of "nerviest", but, take it however you will, Hodge is the man. Fairbanks nervily crept into second position.

We had a great many entries for the honor of class "sport", but after much training and a hard race HAGER and Powell finished in the order named.

Whatever VEEDER does he does well. When he started in to be lazy he was even more successful than in his other pursuits. Burnet lazily sauntered in second.

It is natural that "most useful" and "busiest" should go together. THORNTON and Stuart carry off honors in both.

CURTIS and FAIRBANKS, after distancing all other competitors, rolled up an equal number of votes for "loudest". Hager is noisier than an Exeter celebration.

EATON is voted "best student", with Garver following close.

There are cranks in all walks of life. The Senior Class has some choice specimens in EATON and Tilton.

STUART is the "biggest bluffer", but after receiving this distinction his days will soon be over. Curtis stayed in school three years without even getting on probation, so was voted second place.

After grinding twenty-five hours a day for four years, EATON received seventy-nine votes for class "grind". Dunlap was second with eight.

Our shining light is HEMINGWAY. The fellows in his entry don't have to burn oil. Fairbanks ran a good race and lost by only two yards.

They say that college athletes make a mark in the world. Such being the case, Hodge and Dillon will be known the world over.

Dods received thirty-five votes for "thinks he is best athlete", while Stuart got fourteen. How could they be so badly mistaken!

The prize for "greatest jollier" was finally awarded to CURTIS. Stuart handed out a smooth line of talk and got second money.

If the marriageable girls only knew how meek HAAS was he would have to remove to Utah to accommodate all that would seek his hand. Dick is next in order. Look out, boys, this is leap year.

Naturally, the "fusser" and "winner" is also the "flirt". In GEORGE TOWNSEND we have a man with a girl in every port. He does love one more than the rest, though. Louis Porteous has three girls at the Fem. Sem. continually.

In "BUCK" STUART and S. Hodge we have two politicians of unusual ability. "Buck" runs the primaries, while "Bunny" stands in front of the Dining Hall and pledges votes.

HASKELL is so fresh and green some horse will probably eat him. P. Brooks is second, and always talks back.

We hope these remarks will be taken in the spirit which prompted them—as jests—and will offend no one.

EUGENE J. CURTIS.

EDUCATIONAL

EDUCATIONAL statistics have always been of minor consideration, but the Class of 1904 is composed of such studious material that they have not time to clap in chapel or smoke in their front yards. Statistics are said to be deceptive, and they certainly are in this case because they do not begin to show the consuming interest that every Senior has taken in his studies this year. As a side light on the studious ambition of the class, ten enterprising men have announced their intention of working at M. I. T. next year. The majority of the class, however, prefer the system at Yale Academic, as forty-one are headed that way. Thirty-seven will continue their work at Yale Sheff., eighteen intend to go to Harvard to live for the next four years, three men are bent on burning the midnight oil at Princeton, the same number at Cornell and Williams, while two are even going to Dartmouth. Four men are undecided what seat of learning to honor.

Intense excitement has been manifested over the race for faculty honors. Mr. Benner has the enviable reputation of being the "best teacher", with Mr. Forbes a bad second. The "easiest to recite to" is Dr. Peabody, but Mr. McCurdy helped enough along to win second place. Mr. Freeman got "sarcastic", and lightly seized first honors for "hardest to recite to"; Mr. Lynde talked in circles and took second, while "Dutch", as usual, butted in and tied for third with Mr. Stone. Mr. McCurdy is easily the "kindest", with Mr. Forbes a good second. Mr. Bullinger, although he has not been with us long, won first place as "most popular" in a walk. Mr. Forbes was second, but as "most broad-minded" he was second to none. Mr. Bullinger was the next in line. Mr. Eaton had no trouble at all in getting "most eccentric", and left Mr. Stone far in the rear. Mr. Poynter had "grouchiest" thrust upon him by forty willing hands. Mr. Lynde pulled down the corner of his mouth a little farther and distanced Mr. F. E. Newton for second place. Mr. Bullinger and Mr. Forbes laughed hard for "pleasantest", but Mr. Bullinger's smile was three votes to the good. It is hard for Dr. Peabody to call a bluff, and Mr. McCurdy also finds trouble in detecting an unprepared recitation. Mr. Freeman is not bothered a bit by an artistic bluff, and it is also hard to fool Mr. Benner. Mr. Freeman has a pleasant little smile that has gained for him the name of "most rattling".

When Mr. Lynde bites his chalk the elusive thought flees the scholar's brain, so he wins second honors. Mr. Freeman's propensity for talk has won him the pleasing reputation of "most (disagreeably) sarcastic". Mr. Stone threw in a few hot shots and obtained second. Mr. Forbes has most of his corners rubbed off, though Mr. Benner pushed him hard for "most polished". Mr. Poynter, "the man with the 'Y'", has a very limited range of thought, and Mr. Eaton is also a weak candidate for "most narrow minded". Apollo's rival is Mr. Forbes, with Mr. Bullinger the defeated candidate for "handsomest". Mr. Forbes is the brightest, while Mr. Benner's gas bill doesn't cost him much. The same two take first and second in the hot air contest for "windiest".

We take great pleasure in announcing the winners in this exciting contest.

Geometry is generally conceded to be the hardest study that the Class of 1904 ever had to take, but the majority seem to find their history nothing but a pleasant diversion. Only two school years caused our extraordinarily bright class any trouble, the hardest being Senior and the next Middle. The easiest was that delightful Junior year, or, translated, "Prep."

PUBLICATIONS

HISTORY OF PUBLICATIONS

HE history of Andover's publications is one full of interest and instruction; interesting, because by reading it we may see the rapid advance of literary life in the school; instructive, because it points out the way for still greater attainments along this line,—the past acting as a guide for the future.

At the start the publications were in the hands of a small body, and their circulation and importance was small. But the improvements worked by time and experience in other phases of the school's life, have also been prominent in the publications. Now, the papers stand for the school as a whole; they are a voice of the student-body, accessible to every member of the school, and offering chances of distinction and honor to all who wish to attain these qualities by such means.

At present there are three distinct publications in the school,—each of a different character, and each independent of the other. These three publications have been developed from a small manuscript printed by the Philomathean Society for the first time in 1854; the sheet, called the Philo Mirror, contained the minutes of the Philomathean Society, with, sometimes, a few stray articles thrown in to fill up space. The paper was a quarterly.

The next publication, the Phillipian, appeared in 1878. The paper was, as it is today, devoted to accounts of happenings in school and comments upon them. At first it appeared as a fortnightly, then, with increased popularity, it appeared weekly, and finally, bi-weekly. This, as the chief publication of the school, is edited by a representative board of editors, and is designed to be, not so much of a literary work, as a journal and record of all school events, whereby undergraduates and alumni may keep in close touch with the old school. The paper consists of four pages, a number which is increased as occasion demands, and it is without doubt the most widely circulated and most appreciated of all the publications.

While the Phillipian has been enjoying a prosperous existence, the Mirror has been through various fortunes; its present management seems to be lifting it to a higher grade of success, which is most desirable, as of late the paper has been allowed to run down.

In 1892, appeared the first issue of the Pot-Pourri. This publication, as its name implies, contains "a mixture of everything," corresponding to the college year book. The Pot-Pourri has been generally successful and is strong with the school. It is published once a year. The Pot-Pourri succeeded the Masque, one of the best annuals that the school ever had,—a literary success, but a financial failure.

The SENIOR CLASS Book is the latest of the school publications. Its first number appeared in 1897. It is entirely devoted to accounts of the graduating class, and, like the Pot-Pourri, is an annual.

During the past year it has been considered advisable to combine the Pot-Pourri and Class Book into one volume, this issue being the first under the new departure.

Reviewing the successes and failures of the various school publications, we can easily see how, as the result of one small manuscript, Andover now enjoys the reputation of having four publications, ranking at the top of preparatory school editions. Thus, the literary side of the school has developed to such a degree, that it now has renown and honor as well as the athletic side,

BUILDING OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ARCHAEOLOGY

We hope you'll have a jolly laugh
And trust you won't feel blue,
If in this mass of random chaff
A little is on you.

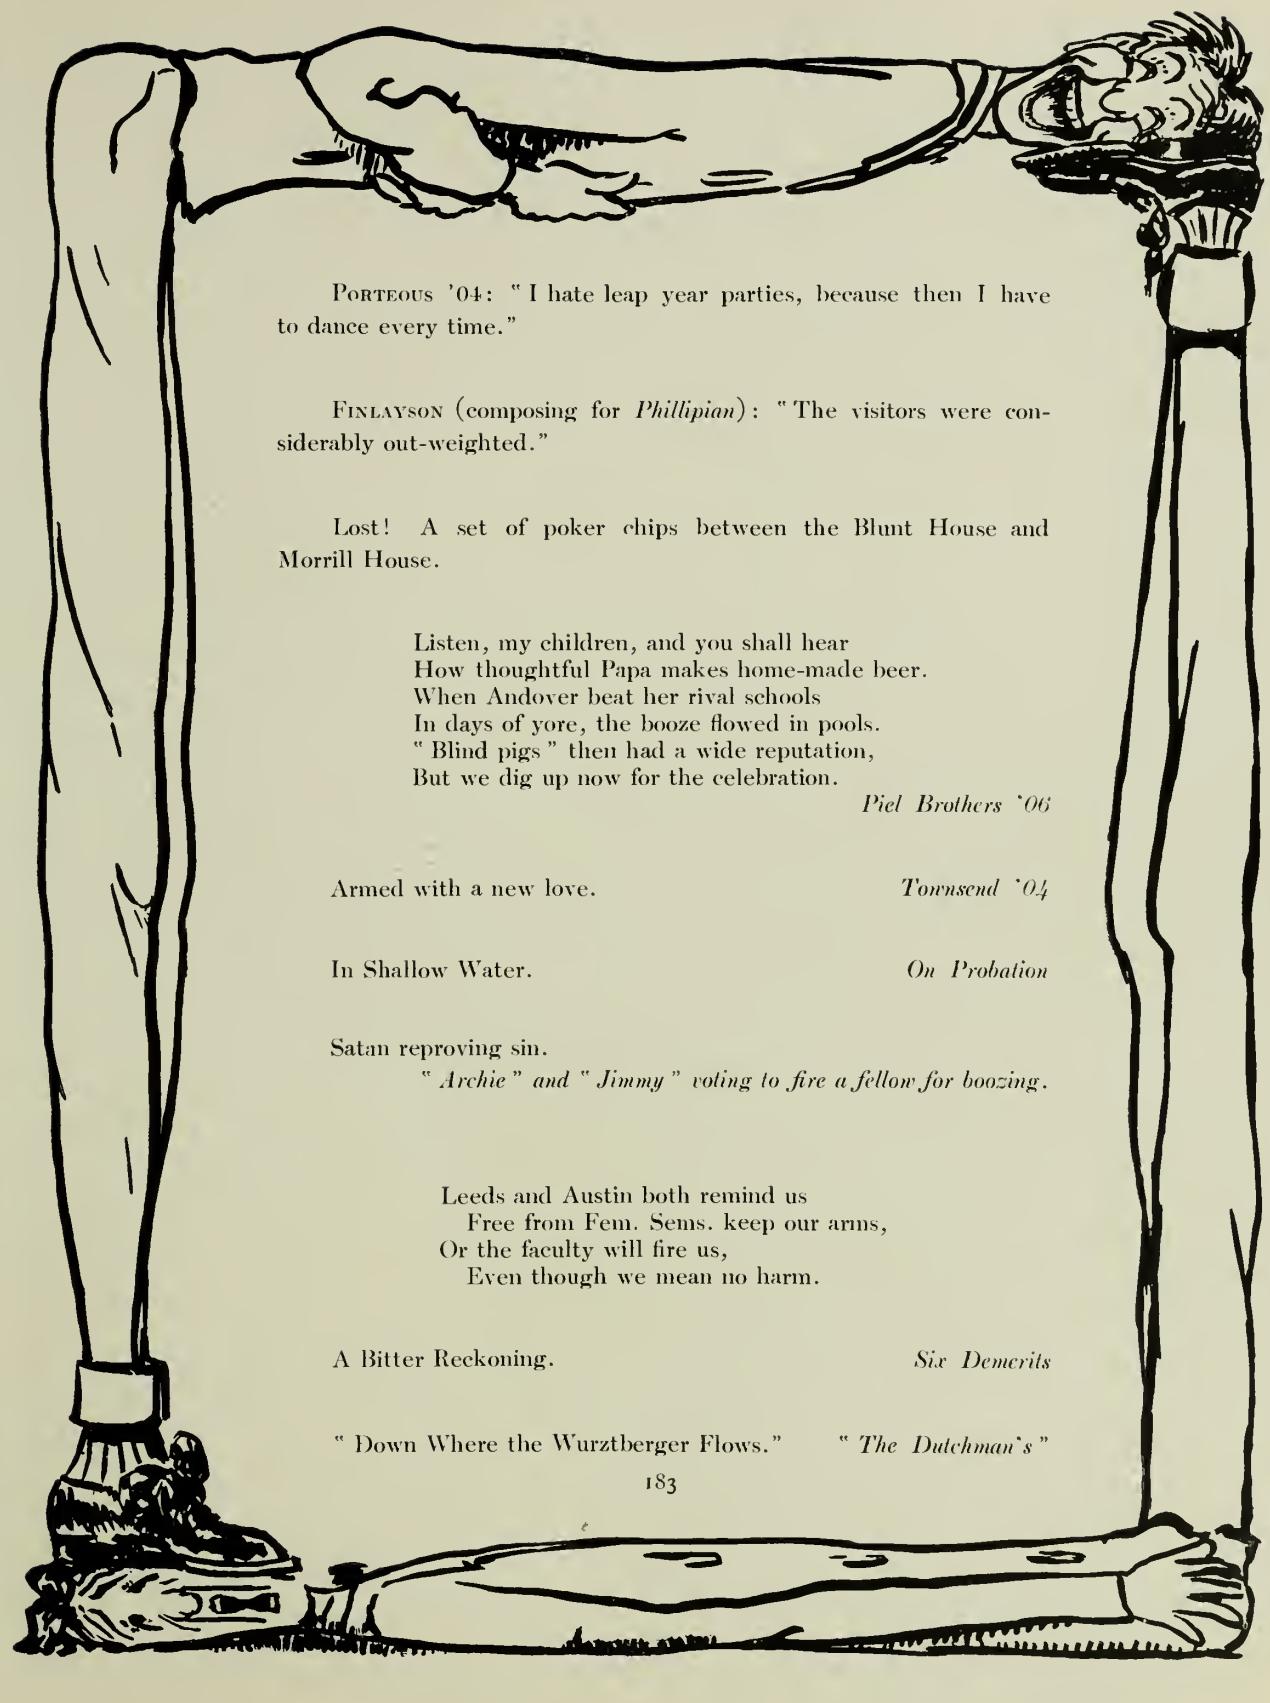

Just try to take it pleasantly,
And when you look about
You'll see that you are better off
Than those that were left out.

When you should be learning of sine and co-sine?
You should be getting some Dutch in your head,
But you chase after Femmies and talk sweetly instead.
Now why don't you quit and give others a show

QUESTION: Why is the coffee served at the dining hall like "the quality of mercy"?

ANSWER: Because " it is not strained."

Poynter's a spotter of great renown.
He spotted a lad in Lawrence town.
He said, " My duty forces me
To report him to the facuty,
Though some, in such a case, would not.

EXTRACTS FROM DR. PAGE'S NOTE BOOK

Oct. 28 — Mr. Benner had a bad attack of indigestion, caused by eating too many Greek roots.

Nov. 12 — Thaxter Eaton is laid up with nervous prostration, trying to study twenty-five hours a day.

Dec. 8 — Mr. Poynter was overbalanced by the weight of his own importance and badly injured.

Jan. 20 — Ovid Chapman attempted to "bleed" "Buck" Stuart, but was unsuccessful.

Feb. 1 — Dr. Newton cut his class; it is feared many of the fellows will not recover.

FROM THE TOPICAL SONG.

Oh, listen to my tale of woe,
I have some things you ought to know.
" Buck " Stuart has a great big nose,
And " Bobby " Hager pads his clothes.
The Phillips Inn would be all right
Were old man Ripley not so tight.
" Paul " Veeder likes to take a snooze,
And " Georgie " Hollett likes his booze.
" Tom " Gordon loves to fuss the girls,
And Weaver's going to grow some curls.
" Dutch " Heidrich lives on sauer-kraut,
Some day he'll grow most awfully stout.
" John " Bennett bets on horses fast;
His winners always come in last.
" Jim " Humbird can play fine football,
But Dodds thinks that he knows it all.
" Dick " Gurley carries lots of notes
To little maids in petticoats.
Old Horace Poynter sneaks aroun'
To find some fellows out of town,
In future time we hope to see
Our Horace bounched by the faculty.
" Rudy " Leeds has lots of cash,
And on the Femmies makes a mash.
" Les " Perrin's hair is awfully red,
And P. R. Brown's a " mutton-head ".
" Jo " Murphy thinks he can pole vault,
And Haskell needs a lot of salt.
Some caps are worn by Britton Browne
Which are the curse of all the town.
" Buck " Stuart's singing is all right,
But with his " dough " he's mighty tight.
Now by this rhyme we mean no harm,
It's just like " Bob " and his fire-alarm;
So don't get mad and don't get sore,
For a grouch, you know, is an awful bore.

" CHARLIE " FORBES (in Latin class): " Bennett, after you've done something real devilish you always put an expression on your face that seems to say, ' Heaven's home for me. ' "

There is a young man named Leeds,
Who has all the money he needs.

He's stuck on his looks,
And reads lots of books,
But from studying he always reedes.

HEIDRICH '05: " My old hat's getting awfully soft."

BENNETT '04: " Catching it from your head, I suppose?"

There's a prof. in this school we call " Mae ",
Whose skull is possessed of a crack.

Through this we hear buzz,
The wheels in his fuzz,
For he sure has a head like a tack.

"BUCK'S" DEBUT AT THE FEM. SEM.

Now old " Buck " Stuart made up his mind
He would a-fussing go,
Said he: " I am determined to
Be some fair damsel's beau."

But " Buck " is quite a busy lad,
He manages our nine;
And while engaged at 'phoning
He lost track of the time.

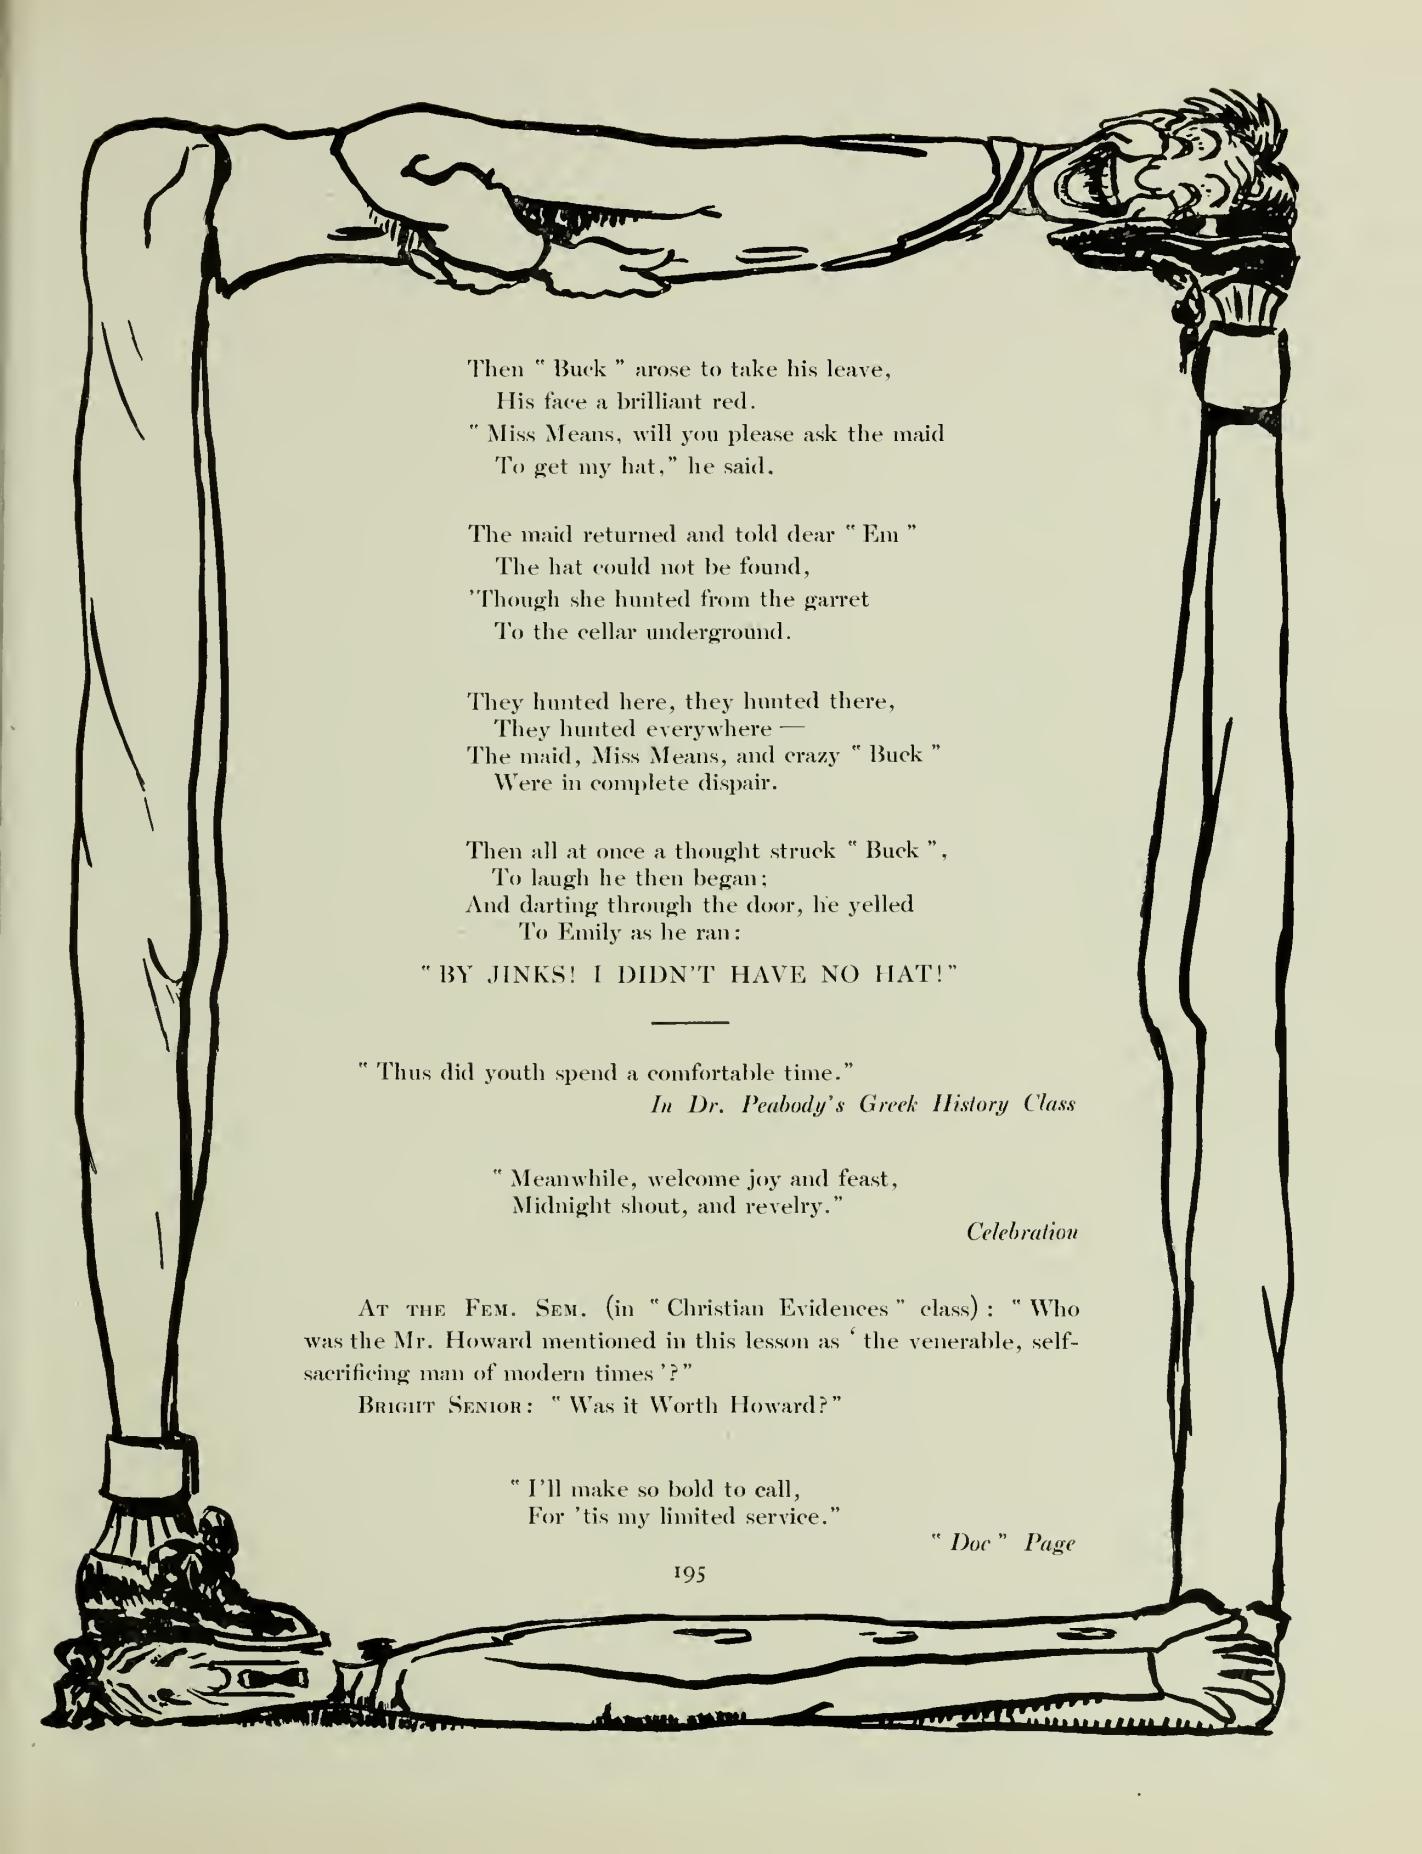

Now if you go to Abbot Hall,
Some dear, sweet girl to see;
The proper time to make your call
Is from nine to nine-thirty.

At just exactly nine o'clock
" Buck " started to get dressed.
He washed his face, and combed his hair,
And donned his Sunday-best.

He started Fem-ward on the run,
And stopped before the door:
He was led into a parlor
Where he'd never been before.

The maid returned and said to " Buck " :
" The nimble Emily Means
Would like to have a word with you
Back here behind the scenes."

" Em " talked with " Buck " for quite a while,
And jumped on him for fare,
She said she never wished again
To see him over there.

Then "Buck" arose to take his leave,
His face a brilliant red.
"Miss Means, will you please ask the maid
To get my hat," he said.

The maid returned and told dear "Em"
The hat could not be found,
"Though she hunted from the garret
To the cellar underground.

They hunted here, they hunted there,
They hunted everywhere —
The maid, Miss Means, and crazy "Buck"
Were in complete despair.

Then all at once a thought struck "Buck",
To laugh he then began;

"TIT FOR TAT"

Our faculty consists of some very queer men,
Some of them sensible, others insane.
So now in order, I'll tell of each one,
His chief characteristic after his name.

A stands for Allen, unassuming and just;
For Cicero he is renowned,
Whether him for teacher or friend you may wish,
He's the squarest and best to be found.

B stands for Benner, an Andover man,
Who reads ancient Greek like a dream.
And the strength he has left at the end of the day,
He removes with his mowing-machine.

C stands for "Cut", the curse of us all;
For which most of us hang by a thread.
And "Drip" Newton will joyfully when I am gone
Write CUT on the stone at my head.

D stands for Durand, Milton's best friend,
And a "shark" on prose, English, and verse.
But when this good man has "cashed in his chips",
Shakespeare will ride in his hearse.

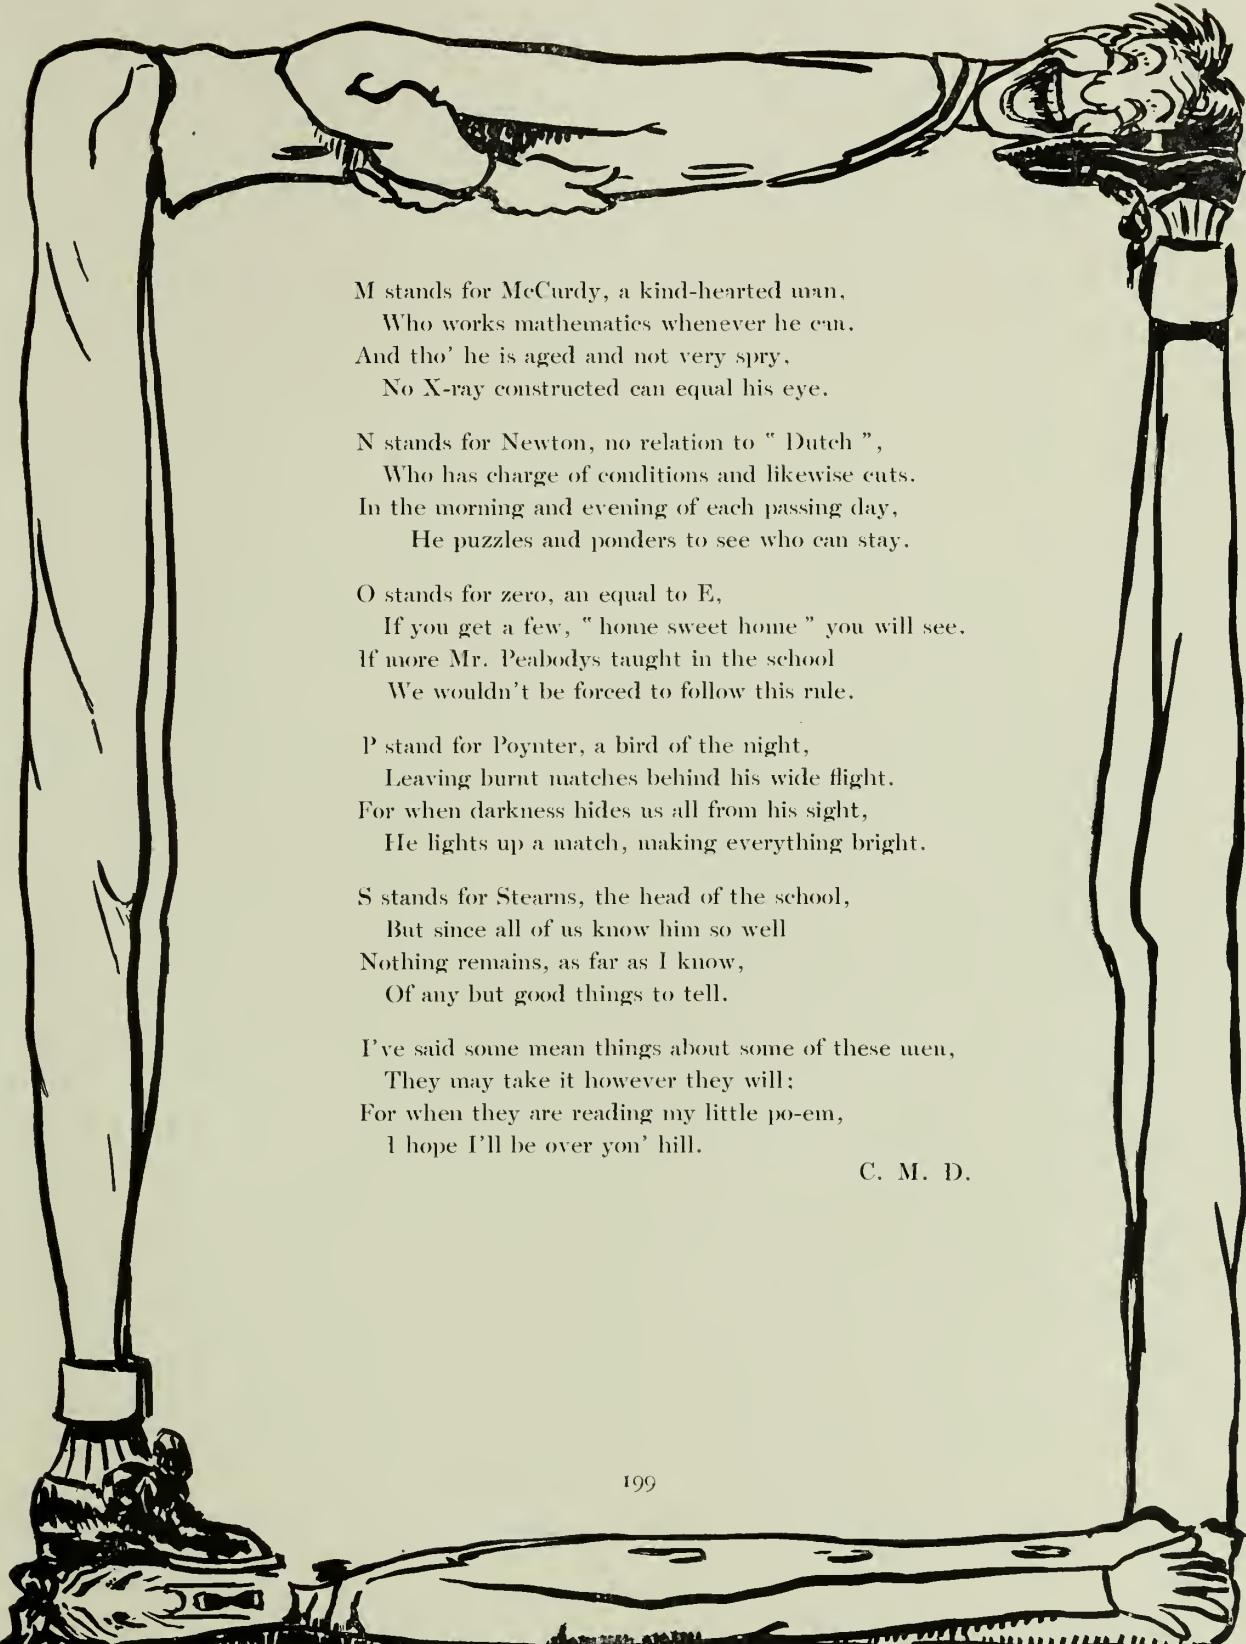

E stands for Eaton, known better as "Pap",
Who goes "looney" from x, y, and z.
And I pray every night, before going to bed,
That in Heaven no "make-ups" I'll see.

F stands for "flunk", our frequent mistake,
And E is flunk's nearest relation.
After two or three flunks and a couple of E's,
"Drip" Newton puts us on probation.

G stands for Graham, a huntsman bold,
Who has dabbled at every old thing.
But what tries him most and works up his wrath
Is to drag a black pup by a string.

I stands for nothing, and likewise does J,
The next follows suit and its name is K.
So from now on, you see, I'll skip one or two,
And try to say nothing except what is true.

L stands for Lynde, conceited and vain,
Who has nothing of use but a parrot-like brain.
And when at a theorem he seems to balk,
Stepping back from the board he nibbles his chalk.

M stands for McCurdy, a kind-hearted man,
Who works mathematics whenever he can,
And tho' he is aged and not very spry,
No X-ray constructed can equal his eye.

N stands for Newton, no relation to "Dutch",
Who has charge of conditions and likewise cuts,
In the morning and evening of each passing day,
He puzzles and ponders to see who can stay.

O stands for zero, an equal to E,
If you get a few, "home sweet home" you will see,
If more Mr. Peabodys taught in the school
We wouldn't be forced to follow this rule.

P stand for Poynter, a bird of the night,
Leaving burnt matches behind his wide flight.
For when darkness hides us all from his sight,
He lights up a match, making everything bright.

S stands for Stearns, the head of the school,
But since all of us know him so well
Nothing remains, as far as I know,
Of any but good things to tell.

I've said some mean things about some of these men,
They may take it however they will;
For when they are reading my little po-em,
I hope I'll be over yon' hill.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR

ON the sixteenth of September last, occurred the one hundred and twenty-sixth invasion of Andover, Mass. Incoming coaches and cars were filled with some four hundred fellows, and the town took a decided brace.

The Football team began practicing immediately and an exceptionally strong team was developed, ten of last year's victorious eleven having returned to school. But in spite of this fact Andover was defeated by Exeter's vastly heavier eleven, on November 7, by the score of 14 to 11. This defeat, however, was partially made up for on the following Saturday by a victory over Lawrenceville to the tune of 23 to 0. This term witnessed a transformation of the Mirror from a monthly to a publication appearing but once each term, and it was announced that the Por-Pourri and CLASS BOOK would be issued in one volume as it now appears.

During the Winter term, Hockey and Basketball occupied most attention in athletics, while the Musical and Dramatic Clubs were distinguishing themselves by several performances in and out of town.

The Spring term opened with a victory for the Baseball team, which had already been practicing several weeks. The entire season thus far has been most successful and a victory June 11th is looked for by all. On the track, Andover has not been so successful. The team, while composed of hard workers, was defeated in their dual meet with Exeter, but only after the severest struggle which is characteristic of Andover's spirit.

ALREADY A STRONG TRADITION

YALE is a place full of tradition. Tradition not only governs the conduct of the freshman, the relation of classes and the status of institutions, but also the business dealings of the new comer. They direct him where to go for the necessaries and the luxuries of life. Some of these traditions become strongly intrenched in a few years, and there is generally a very good reason for it. We think that if you will communicate with our store, or by a personal call on our representative when he is at "Chap's," you will see why the tradition has become so strong among Andover men to get their furnishings of Yale?

ANDOVER men who expect to form a part of "Yale 1908," are respectfully and confidently referred to the hundreds of Andover men who have formed a part of every Yale class since 1875, in which year we first began to make a specialty of

FURNITURE

and Room Furnishings
For Yale Students

More than three-quarters of all the decoration and furnishing of Yale men's rooms is done by us.

We got the trade originally and hold it today because we know our business, because we are prompt and helpful, and because we do business on the most modern of little profit plans.

Remember the name and come to us.
